Professors Emeriti
Elizabeth Czech-Beckerman, Howard D. Doll, Robert J. Gwyn, Martha Neil Hardy, William M. Hardy, James W. Pence Jr., Wesley H. Wallace.

Old Requirements (Prior to Fall 2003)

Majors in the Department of Communication Studies must take a total of twenty-seven credit hours in the department, including two courses identified as "core" courses and at least three of which must be numbered 100 or higher. The "core" courses are COMM 10 and one of the following: 12, 13, 14, 32, 33, 34, 60, 71.

Additionally, each major must have a coherent program of study, defined as at least four courses in an area of study identified by the department, or at least four courses selected and justified by the student and approved by the director of undergraduate studies. For more details of major requirements, check the Communications Studies homepage at www.unc.edu/depts/comm.

New Requirements (as of Fall 2003)

Majors in the Department of Communication Studies must take a total of thirty credit hours in the department, including three of the four courses identified as "core" courses and at least three courses numbered 100 or higher. The "core" courses are COMM 22, 41, 60, and 70. Students must successfully complete these "core" requirements with a C or better. The "core" courses also serve as prerequisites for further work within each concentration.

Additionally, each major must have a coherent program of study, defined as at least four courses in an area of study/concentration identified by the department, or at least four courses selected and justified by the student and approved by the director of undergraduate studies. For more details of major requirements, check the Communications Studies homepage at www.unc.edu/depts/comm.

Students are invited to work closely with faculty in courses, through independent study, cocurricular programs, and research projects. The department offers major programs leading to the B.A. and M.A. degrees. Courses are also open to non-majors whose personal and professional goals require understanding of human communication.

Course Descriptions

6 First Year Seminars (3). The seminars are designed to enable first-year students to work closely with top professors in classes that enroll twenty students or fewer. See the Directory of Classes for specific offerings. GC perspective.

9 Oral Communication (1). Prerequisite, test out of English 11 and 12. Required of all first-year students testing out of English 11 and 12 with the exception of those satisfying the freshman honors literature requirement (ENGL 29/29W, CLAS 29, SLAV 29, GERM 29, or ROML 29). The Curriculum of Comparative Literature explores major works of literature and theory, as well as interrelations among national literatures, thereby enabling students to acquire a broad, liberal education. Sophomores planning to major in Comparative Literature should take the two-semester Great Books course (CMPL 21 and 22) as part of their General College requirements.

An undergraduate major consists of eight courses: either one literature course in Classics or one course in one major author (e.g., ENGL 52 Chaucer, ENGL 58 Shakespeare, RUSS 164 Dostoevsky, ITAL 40 Dante, SPAN 46 Cervantes, etc.); two literature courses in a foreign language (beyond the General College foreign-language requirement—usually 21 or higher; these would be in addition to the major author course mentioned above if the course in the major author is taken in the original foreign language); and five courses taught within the Curriculum of Comparative Literature or cross-listed as Comparative Literature courses, to be chosen in consultation with the undergraduate adviser. CMPL 51, The Comparative Study of Literature, is strongly recommended as one of the five courses.

Students may choose to take Comparative Literature as a second major, a particularly attractive option for students majoring in a foreign language since two of the foreign language major requirements can also count toward the eight-course major requirement in Comparative Literature.

Minor in Comparative Literature
The minor in Comparative Literature is available to any undergraduate who has completed CMPL 21 and 22 as part of the General Education requirement or completes the courses during the junior or senior year.

In addition to CMPL 21 and CMPL 22, the minor consists of four additional courses listed or cross-listed in Comparative Literature, with one exception. Courses cross-listed between Comparative Literature and Classics may not be counted for a minor in Comparative Literature by students majoring in Classics.

Undergraduates majoring in Comparative Literature may minor in any department, curriculum, or school in which a minor program is offered. However, the two foreign language literature courses required for the minor in Comparative Literature may not also be counted as part of a minor in any of the foreign language departments.
