Introduction

The study of communication is essential for participating in an increasingly complex and mediated global environment. Through its teaching, research, and service, the Department of Communication Studies addresses the many ways communication functions to create, sustain, and transform personal life, social relations, political institutions, economic organizations, and cultural and aesthetic conventions in society; promotes competencies required for various modes of mediated and nonmediated communication; and develops skills for analyzing, interpreting, and critiquing communication problems and questions.

The program of study offered by the department thus provides a firm foundation for enriched personal living, for professional effectiveness regardless of the specific career one may pursue, and for informed participation in the human community.

Programs of Study

The degree offered is bachelor of arts in communication studies. The minor in writing for the screen and stage is an interdisciplinary program drawing upon the faculties and resources of the Department of Dramatic Art, Department of Communication Studies, and the Creative Writing Program of the Department of English and Comparative Literature. For information, see the Department of Dramatic Art in this bulletin.

Majoring in Communication Studies: Bachelor of Arts

Majors in the Department of Communication Studies must take a total of 30 credit hours in the department, including three of the four courses identified as core courses and at least three courses numbered 400 or higher. The core courses are COMM 120, 140, 160, and

270. Students must successfully complete these core requirements with a C or better. The core courses also serve as prerequisites for further work within each concentration.

Additionally, each major must have a coherent program of study, defined as at least four courses in an area of study/concentration identified by the department, or at least four courses selected and justified by the student and approved by the director of undergraduate studies.

Option A: Pre-Selected Concentrations in Communication Studies

Students should select one of the following concentrations and take a minimum of four courses within that concentration. Note: core courses do not count as one of the four required courses within the selected concentration. Additional courses that are not listed under any concentration may be used to meet major requirements but not concentration requirements.

- Interpersonal and Organizational Communication (Note: COMM 120 is a prerequisite for most of the interpersonal and organizational communication courses; consult course descriptions): COMM 120, 312, 410, 411, 521, 522, 523, 525, 526, 620, 629; COMM/MNGT 223, 325; COMM/WMST 224
- Media Studies and Production (Note: COMM 140 is a prerequisite for most of the media courses; consult course descriptions): COMM 130, 142, 230, 330, 411, 431, 432, 434, 440, 441, 450, 532, 534, 543, 544, 546, 547, 553, 635, 636, 639, 645, 649, 651, 656, 658, 659
- Performance Studies (Note: COMM 160 is a prerequisite for most of the performance courses; consult course descriptions): COMM 160, 162, 260, 261, 364, 411, 464, 466, 561, 562, 563, 565, 566, 660, 667, 669
- Rhetorical Studies (Note: COMM 270 is a suggested first course for all rhetorical studies courses; consult course descriptions): COMM 171, 312, 372, 374, 375, 376, 411, 470, 571, 572, 573, 574, 675, 679

Option B: Specialized Concentration in Communication Studies

A student may create her or his own concentration by selecting at least four courses that constitute a coherent program of study. The courses selected in this option must be justified by the student and must be approved by the director of undergraduate studies.

Option C: Concentration in Speech and Hearing Sciences

Students majoring in Communication Studies with a concentration in speech and hearing sciences shall take the following sequence for their concentration:

- COMM/SPHS 530 recommended spring of junior year
- COMM/SPHS 540 recommended fall of senior year
- COMM/SPHS 570 recommended fall of junior year
- COMM/SPHS 582 recommended spring of junior year
- Three COMM electives

Also, the following courses are strongly recommended in accordance with the preprofessional standards for the American Speech-Language-Hearing Association (www.med.unc.edu/ahs/sphs/ms\_prepro.htm):

Fall Junior Year

- LING 101 or PSYC 432 (prerequisites, PSYC 101 and 230 or LING 101 and 400)

Fall Senior Year

- LING 523

Spring Senior Year

- STOR 151 or PSYC 210

Students in this concentration should be aware that the required and recommended courses will satisfy the preprofessional school expectations of UNC-Chapel Hill as well as many other graduate programs; however, completing this concentration does not guarantee admission to the UNC-Chapel Hill program, nor do these courses fulfill requirements for all graduate schools. Students should examine and investigate the specific requirements for each graduate school and program to which they intend to apply.

Students are encouraged to join NSSLHA, the National Student Speech-Language-Hearing Association: A Sertoma Collegiate Club. NSSLHA is a UNC-Chapel Hill student group of people interested in the speech and hearing sciences.

A maximum of 45 hours of COMM courses will count toward graduation.

Students are invited to work closely with faculty in courses and through independent study, co-curricular programs, and research projects. The department offers major programs leading to the B.A. and M.A. degrees. Courses are also open to nonmajors whose personal and professional goals require understanding of human communication.

Honors in Communication Studies

The department participates in the University's Honors Program. Students eligible for the program (see University requirements) may consult with the departmental honors advisor about enrolling in COMM 693H and 694H.

Special Opportunities in Communication Studies

Independent Study

Opportunity for independent study is available through enrollment in COMM 396 or 596. Interested students should consult a faculty advisor in the department.

Internships

The department offers an extensive internship program in media-related industries, business, public service, and other organizations. Internships allow students to explore the relationship between communication theory and its practice in everyday life. Credit can be obtained through consultation with the internship advisor and enrollment in COMM 397. More than 100 organizations participate in the program. Note: Internship credit counts as elective hours and does not count toward the 30 credit hours required for the major.

WUNC Radio and WUNC-TV

Limited opportunities exist for internships and employment with the public radio and television stations in Chapel Hill and in the Research Triangle Park.

Performance Opportunities

Student groups adapt scripts, direct, and stage productions for the public. Additionally, individual students often appear in regular performances sponsored by graduate students in the Department of Communication Studies and in productions directed by faculty members.

Student Television (STV)

STV is a student-run video production operation that provides hands-on opportunities in a variety of programming assignments.

Study Abroad

Students may take course work toward the major through the University's study abroad program. Departmental approval for major credit is required. The department also offers a London-based summer internship in media production and performance studies for qualified students.

Undergraduate Awards

The department offers a number of awards for leadership and contributions to the field, including the Lucia Morgan Award for excellence in the discipline of communication studies, the Sherrill-Pence Award for outstanding work in applied communication, the Wallace Ray Peppers Award in Performance for outstanding work in African and African American literature, and awards for outstanding work in media production, such as the James C. Lampley Award.

Facilities

The department has extensive media production and performance studies facilities located in Swain Hall and Bingham Hall. Swain Hall is home to state-of-the-art media production equipment, classroom space, and editing suites. It also houses Studio 6, where numerous live performances are staged. Bingham Hall contains the Martha Nell Hardy Performance Space.

Graduate School and Career Opportunities

Advanced study and research may be pursued in any of the concentrations specified above. A substantial number of graduate assistantships allow M.A. and Ph.D. candidates to gain experience in research, teaching, production, and administration. Graduate study is characterized by intensive participation in seminars, original research and creative activities, and close work with individual faculty members.

The career outlook for students with degrees in communication studies is promising, and graduates enter a variety of professions that value communication knowledge and skills. Communication studies majors are prepared to serve as communication specialists in business; in federal, state, and local governments and agencies; and in public service. Some of the more specific areas in which majors pursue careers are teaching, social advocacy, public relations and advertising, personnel management and training, management consulting video and film production, and emerging technologies. Students are also prepared for graduate study and research in communication studies and in related academic disciplines such as law.

An understanding of communication provides a strong base for a wide range of career options. The mission of the department is to go beyond narrow technical training by providing a liberal arts approach to communication. This provides the student with maximum latitude for promotion and advancement and avoids limited career opportunities resulting from narrow approaches to the field.

The burgeoning growth of communication industries and support fields provides a wide range of career opportunities.

Graduates of the department, who number over 4,000, are engaged in a variety of occupations ranging from work for international corporations to jobs at local nonprofit organizations.

COMM

050 [006E] First-Year Seminar: Helping Families Manage the Effects of Disasters (3). Considers the effects of disasters on children, families, and communities, and offers an understanding of and practice in how to lessen victims' trauma and decrease chances of long-term damage when disaster strikes.

051 First-Year Seminar: Organizing and Communicating for Social Entrepreneurs (3). This first-year seminar is designed to show how we can better understand organizational communication through the medium of different metaphors (e.g., machine, organism, culture, political system, psychic prison).

052 [006F]: First-Year Seminar: Cynicism, Politics, and Youth Culture (3). After initially exploring the meaning of cynicism and apathy and the problem of cultural diagnosis, this seminar will look at these issues in the political arena.

060 [006M] First-Year Seminar: Organizing and Communicating for Social Entrepreneurs (3). This course examines the historical and current development of social entrepreneurship as a field of study and practice, with particular attention to successful organizational communication strategies designed to solve community problems.

061 First-Year Seminar: The Politics of Performance (3). In this course students will explore the possibilities of making political performances, or making performances political. We will be particularly concerned with how performance may contribute to processes of social change.

062 First-Year Seminar: African American Literature and Performance (3). The course examines—through performance—the question of what characterizes “Blackness” as it is manifest through experience, history, and symbol in the United States, as well as the impact of African practices and identities upon blackness in the United States. The course is concerned with what has been termed the “black literary imagination.”

063 First-Year Seminar: The Creative Process in Performance (3). The Memorial Hall Carolina Performing Arts Series sets the stage for this course, and students will be engaged with its multimedia, music, dance, and theater performances. We will explore the creative processes and cultural contexts of these performances and will compare the arts as a way of knowing the world to the creative processes of academic scholarship.

070 [006F] First-Year Seminar: Southern Writing in Performance (3). A performance-centered seminar focusing on the works of North Carolina writers, especially those who write fiction and poetry, and on researching, discussing, adapting, and performing that content.

071 First-Year Seminar: Conflict, Culture, and Rhetoric: The Search for Peace in Northern Ireland (3). This seminar will explore culture, conflict, and rhetorical practice through an extended case study of the conflict in Northern Ireland. The discourse will include speeches, pamphlets, political flyers, music, poetry, fiction, film, and graffiti.

074 First-Year Seminar: Remembering Dixie: Exploring Rhetoric, Memory, and the South (3). We will begin by looking at controversies over such issues as public display of the Confederate battle flag, public commemorative displays like Silent Sam, arguments over “Southern Heritage,” and other controversial issues.

082 First-Year Seminar: Globalizing Organizations (3). In this course, we explore the communication issues that arise within international contexts. Through the analysis of readings and films, we will delve into the contentious debates surrounding globalization and explore the ethical and social issues that arise within global forms of communicating and organizing.

085 First-Year Seminar: Think, Speak, Argue (3). This is a course in learning to think more critically, speak more persuasively, and argue more effectively by focusing on practical skill development in reasoning and debate.

100 [010] Communication and Social Process (3). Addresses the many ways our communication—including language, discourse, performance, and media—reflects, creates, sustains, and transforms prevailing social and cultural practices.

109 Oral Communication (1). Prerequisite, test out of ENGL 101 and 102. Required of all first-year students testing out of ENGL 101 and 102 with the exception of those satisfying the first-year honors literature requirement (ENGL 135H, 135HW; CLAS 133H; SLAV 029; GERM 190H; or ROML 229). Includes theory and practice in small group problem solving, oral argument, and public speaking.

113 [13] Public Speaking (3). Theory and extensive practice in various types of speaking.

120 [022] Introduction to Interpersonal and Organizational Communication (MNGT 120) (3). An introduction to communication theory, research, and practice in a variety of interpersonal and organizational contexts. This course examines the role of communication in both personal and professional relationships.

130 [014] Introduction to Media Production (3). Prerequisite for all production courses. Introduces students to basic tools, techniques, and conventions of production in audio, video, and film. Interactive laboratory work included.

131 [030] Writing for the Stage and Screen (DRAM 131) (3). Prerequisite, DRAM 120 or ENGL 130 or permission of the instructor. Introduction to writing screen and stage plays. Required for the interdisciplinary minor in screen and stage writing.

140 [041] Introduction to Media History, Theory, and Criticism (3). An introduction to the critical analysis of film, television, advertising, video, and new media texts, contexts, and audiences.

142 [042] Popular Music and Youth Culture (3). Prerequisite, COMM 140; or for nonmajors, permission of the instructor. This class explores the historical, social, political, and cultural significances of popular music as a communicative practice in the United States from 1950 to the present.

160 [060] Introduction to Performance Studies: Performing Literature (3). Study of a variety of literary texts (lyric, epic, dramatic) through the medium of performance.

162 [062] Oral Traditions (3). Introductory course in the form and functions of oral traditional practices. Topic areas may include dynamics of orality, slang, childlore, storytelling, the trickster, and oral history.

171 [071] Argumentation and Debate (3). Prerequisite, COMM 270; or for nonmajors, permission of the instructor. Analysis of issues, use of evidence, reasoning, brief making, and refutation. 553 [153] Media and Activism (3). A study of the electronic media as a feedback mechanism for community organization and social change. A variety of broadcast and nonbroadcast uses of the media are studied.

561 [160] Performance of Literature by Women of Color (WMST 561) (3). Prerequisite, COMM 160 or permission of the instructor. Explores through performance contemporary poetry, fiction, nonfiction, and feminist thought by women of color in the United States.

562 [161] Oral History and Performance (FOLK 562, HIST 562, WMST 562) (3). This course combines readings and field work in oral history with study of performance as a means of interpreting and conveying oral history texts. Emphasis on women's history.

563 [163] Performance of Children's Literature (3). Prerequisites, COMM 160 and permission of the instructor. The course explores advanced performance theory while focusing exclusively on contemporary poetry, prose fiction, and drama intended for young audiences. Both solo and group performances for young viewers are included.

565 [165] Ritual, Theater, and Performance in Everyday Life (FOLK 565) (3). Prerequisite, COMM 160 or ENGL 126 or permission of the instructor. This course will explore the dynamics of performance as it is broadly produced within the texture of individual experiences, the interaction of community memberships, and the dramas of cultural aesthetics.

566 [168] Narrative in Fiction and Film: Adaptation and Performance (3). Study of narrative in selected short stories and novels and their adaptation for film.

570 [183] Anatomy and Physiology of the Speech and Hearing Mechanism (SPHS 570) (3). Anatomy and physiology of the speech producing and aural mechanisms.

571 [171] Rhetorical Theory and Practice (3). Prerequisite, COMM 270; or for nonmajors, permission of the instructor. Investigates contemporary theories of purposive symbolic behavior; focus is upon rational, psychological, and dramatistic explanations of human behavior.

572 [172] Public Policy Argument (3). Prerequisite, COMM 270; or for nonmajors, permission of the instructor. Analyzes argument in a variety of contexts with an emphasis on public policy and exploring tensions involved in addressing both expert and public audience in the political sphere.

573 [173] The American Experience in Rhetoric (3). Prerequisite, COMM 270; or for nonmajors, permission of the instructor. Examines public discourse from the colonial period to the present. Discourses, critical perspectives, and historical periods studied will vary.

574 [174] War and Culture (PWAD 574) (3). Examines American cultural myths about war generally and specifically about the causes of war, enemies, weapons, and warriors, and the way these myths constrain foreign and defense policy, military strategy, and procurement.

582 [180] Introductory Audiography I (SPHS 582) (3). Theory and practice of the measurement of hearing, causative factors in hearing loss, evaluation of audiometric results, and demonstration of clinical procedures.

596 [191] Advanced Independent Study/Directed Reading (1–3). Prerequisites, completion of at least one 300-level COMM course and departmental permission. For the communication studies major who wishes to pursue an advanced independent research project or reading program under the supervision of a selected instructor. Intensive individual research on a problem designed by instructor and student in conference.

617 [684] Introduction to Communication Disorders (EDUC 617) (3). Explores the etiology, epidemiology, assessment, and educational implications of speech and language disorders.

620 [120] Theories of Interpersonal Communication (3). Prerequisite, COMM 120; or for nonmajors, permission of the instructor. Course focuses on how communication is used to build and sustain interpersonal relationships. Forms and functions of communication are examined as a means of testing and defining relationships.

622 Impact of Disasters on Families (3). Examination of the effects of disasters on children, families, and communities. Course considers strategies for disaster relief and methods for decreasing long-term psychosocial damage.

629 [129] Topics in Interpersonal and Organizational Communication (3). Prerequisite, COMM 120; or for nonmajors, permission of the instructor. Designed for advanced students, course provides in-depth examination of particular theories of human communication. Course focus varies. May be repeated.

635 [135] Documentary Production (3). Prerequisite, COMM 230; corequisite, one of COMM 546, 547, or 645. A workshop in the production of video and/or film nonfiction or documentary projects. The course will focus on narrative, representational, and aesthetic strategies of documentary production.

636 [136] Interactive Media (ART 406) (3). Prerequisite, COMM 140, 230, or permission of the instructor. Explores interactive media through creative projects that include sound, video, and graphic elements. Technical information will serve the broader goal of understanding the aesthetics and critical issues of interactive media.

639 [139] Special Topics in Media Production (3). Prerequisite, COMM 140. A special topics course on a selected aspect of media production or writing. May be repeated.

642 Special Topics in Cultural Studies (3). Prerequisites, COMM 442; or for nonmajors, permission of the instructor. This course will explore various specific topics, theories, and methodologies in cultural studies.

645 [142] The Documentary Idea (3). Prerequisite, COMM 140; or for nonmajors, permission of the instructor. Historical and theoretical examination of expressions of the documentary idea in different eras and various modes including film, television, and radio.

646 [118] Animation (3). Prerequisites, COMM 130 and 230; or for nonmajors, permission of the instructor. An introduction to the art and mechanics of two-dimensional digital animation.

649 [149] Third World Media (3). The cultural and educational uses of radio and television are studied in the developing countries of Africa, Latin America, and India. Emphasis will be placed on the new electronic media and their effectiveness in serving developing countries.

651 [151] Contemporary International Media (3). Study of contemporary film/television within a specific international context, such as Great Britain, with particular attention to comparisons and contrasts with the United States and Hollywood.

652 Media and Difference (3). Prerequisite, COMM 140; or for nonmajors, permission of the instructor. This course examines critical and theoretical issues concerning the representation and study of various modes of difference, such as sexuality, race, and gender, in specific media texts.

656 [156] Women and Film (WMST 656) (3). This course examines the representation of women in contemporary American film and also considers women as producers of film.

658 [158] Latin American Cinema (3). This course examines the films, audiences, and social contexts of Latin American cinema from the 1930s to the present.

659 [159] Special Topics in Media Studies (3). Prerequisite, COMM 140; or for nonmajors, permission of the instructor. A special topics course on a selected aspect of media studies, including but not limited to media texts, contexts, and/or reception. May be repeated.

660 [162] Group Performance (4). Prerequisites, COMM 160, 260, one 100-level performance course, and permission of the instructor. Theory and practice in adaptation, direction, and group performance of texts.

662 [262] Literature/Performance of Black Diaspora (3). Focuses on interpreting the literature and culture of black people in Africa, the Caribbean, Europe, and the Americas, including fiction, nonfiction, and film, through performance. Participants may anticipate performing every class session.

667 [167] The Politics of Performance (3). Prerequisite, COMM 160 or 162 or permission of the instructor. Course will address the relationship between performance and power, focusing on topics concerned with the potential for performance to contribute to social change.

669 [169] Special Topics in Performance Studies (3). Prerequisites, COMM 160 and one 100-level performance course or permission of the instructor. Advanced study of selected topics drawn from performance history, theory, and practice. May be repeated.

675 [175] Environmental Communication and the Public Sphere (ENST 675) (3). Examines communication practices that accompany citizen participation in environmental decisions, including public education campaigns of nonprofit organizations, "risk communication," media representations, and mediation in environmental disputes.

679 [179] Special Topics in Rhetoric and Cultural Studies (3). Prerequisite, COMM 270; or for nonmajors, permission of the instructor. A special topics course on a selected aspect of rhetoric and cultural studies. May be repeated.

693H [098] Honors (3). By permission of the department. Individual projects designed by students and supervised by a faculty member.

694H [099] Honors (3). By permission of the department. Individual projects designed by students and supervised by a faculty member.

Peter Calingaert, Gyula A. Magó, Donald F. Stanat, William A. Wright.

Introduction

The Department of Computer Science offers instruction and performs research in the essential areas of computer science, including software, Web and Internet computing, networking, hardware systems, operating systems, compilers, parallel and distributed computing, theory of computing, and computer graphics. The bachelor of science in computer science is the preferred degree both for graduate study in computer science and for technical careers in software development, computational science, networking, information systems, and electronic commerce. Graduates of the program are well suited for professional employment in traditional computer and communications industries, as well as in such diverse industries as financial services and consulting practices in which computing and information management are central to the operation of the enterprise.

Majors receive rigorous training in the foundations of computer science and the relevant mathematics, then have ample opportunity to specialize in software systems, programming languages, theoretical computer science, or applications of computing technology in science, applied mathematics, medicine, or business. (Students whose interests lie more in the area of digital system design should consider the computer engineering track of the Curriculum in Applied Sciences and Engineering. Students with interests in the cognitive, social, and organizational roles of information should consider the information science major in the School of Information and Library Science. Both programs are described elsewhere in this bulletin.)

Students may not declare the computer science major until they have satisfactorily completed a set of nine introductory mathematics, physics, and computer science courses (see "Of special note" below). Until these courses have been completed, prospective computer science students are strongly encouraged to declare the "pre-computer science" major (a formal major available to first-year students and sophomores only). This will ensure that prospective computer science students receive the appropriate advising within the General College until they are able to declare the computer science major.
